About Andrew S. Townley

If you're an event organizer who's put a lot of time and money into creating a truly unique event, then you want to make sure you're selecting speakers who are truly unique. Maybe because he grew up on a farm in the middle of Illinois. Maybe it's because he started his stage career at the age of 2 singing with Barbara Fairchild. Or maybe it's because he's lived and worked in 19 countries.

Andrew S. Townley is different, and that means he's a different kind of speaker.

The focus of Andrew's work is helping the Global 500 build effective, value-driven security programs. But, unlike everyone else, he does it not by focusing on the typical parts of security like technology, threats and bad actors. Andrew does it by focusing on the business. In fact, he doesn't just focus there. He starts there.

Andrew is the founder of 4 companies, including Archistry, the creator of the Security Value Delivery System™, The Agile Security System™, is a certified SABSA® security architect, a certified Amplio Consultant Educator and Agile coach and has been speaking from stages across 3 continents about technology, strategy and security since 1998. He has written the book, Getting Started with The Agile Security System, presented the official SABSA Foundation Training program to over 200 delegates, and has personally helped create value-driven security programs in organizations around the globe.

He presently lives across 4 continents, regularly traveling between the US, Brazil, Ireland and South Africa to work with clients, spend time with family, sit in on traditional Irish music sessions with his fiddle and continue to find new ways to translate scientific and business theories into practical tools.
